ADRIFT TWO WEEKS.

Awful Experience of French Sailor Picked Up by Carmania.

EIGHT DAYS WITHOUT FOOD.

Nine Days Without Water—Dreamed His Wife Had Brought Him Bread. Waking, He Found He Had Eaten His Mittens.

Louis Vallot of the French fishing schooner La Mimosa of St. Malo, who was rescued at sea by the Cunard liner Carmania after he had been adrift in an open dory fourteen days—eight days without food—thus relates his awful experience:

"My dory mate and I left the Mimosa at 4 o'clock on the morning of May 27. The weather was thick, and we could not pick up the first buoy. Finally a snow flurry came on, and as I felt that the boat was drifting I threw out a sea anchor. Then the sea suddenly

"I saw her alter her course," rose, and I thought we had better get back to the schooner. So I cut away the sea anchor, and my mate started to row in the direction of our boat, but we could make no headway.

"Suddenly a big sea swept both of us overboard. I could swim, and in spite of my heavy boots I got back into the dory, but my poor mate, Pacificque Melia, was swept away. With him were carried away four out of five oars we had in the boat.

"When I got back into the dory I found that she was half full of water. As the day wore on I frantically tried to row back to the schooner. I cut one of the thwart of the boat with my big fish knife and made a rough oar out of it, but I could get scarcely any way on the boat. As night began to fall I went to the locker where our stock of provisions was stored. I found that when the seas had washed over our boat the provisions had become wet.

"I suppose, though, I must have dozed off now and then, but the first night seemed to me the longest I have ever passed. I thought of my poor mate. I thought of my wife and children in France, and I prayed the Blessed Virgin to save me.

"At last morning broke. I searched the sea for some sign of the Mimosa or some other ship, but I could see nothing. The first morning I cut a notch in the side of the boat to show that a day had passed, and this I did every day regularly after that.

"The next night was worse than the first; the weather was frightful; the sea seemed to be running mountains high. The boat was swamped over and over again, and I made up my mind I was going to be drowned.

"Finally I took stock of my provisions. I found at the end of the fifth day that the water had given out, and I only had food for one day more. After I had eaten my last biscuit I grew so thirsty that I took a small drink of salt water to wash it down.

"The next day I had no food, but toward night it began to rain, and I caught some of the water and drank it. Then I think I must have got light headed. The dory seemed to me to be full of people, and my wife came, and gave me bread. I found in the morning that I had eaten half of one of my mittens.

"I had long ago lost all reckoning of where I was. The last night before I was picked up was frightful. I heard voices, voices, everywhere whispering to me, calling me. Then I grew frightened; the horrible loneliness appalled me.

"When morning broke I saw a ship. It was a long, long way off, but I blew my horn and shouted as long as I could. The men on the ship did not hear me, and she steamed away. I prayed, and then I saw another ship. God must have heard my prayer, for I saw her alter her course and come nearer to me, and I knew I was going to be saved. All my little remaining strength seemed to leave me once I was safe on the deck."

CAKE TWENTY YEARS OLD.

Queer Odds and Ends Found in an English Miser's Room.

The strange story of a miser's life was told at a Stepney inquest on Charles King, seventy-five years old. The old man had lodged with a carman, occupying one room, for which he paid 2s. 6d. a week. The room has been photographed, for it was, in the words of a relieving officer, a curiosity. The bed was surrounded by huge heaps of rubbish, evidently collected from dustbins and the streets. In various pieces of paper were found carefully wrapped up false teeth, bits of cheese, bread and sugar, pinches of tea and coffee and other odds and ends.

In a corner stood a cake evidently between twenty and thirty years old. A box found near by contained some rings, a watch and chain and some old coins.

The deceased, evidence showed, was very eccentric, and it is thought he had money in the bank. A search is being made for a bank book.—London Daily Mail.

SIAMESE CATS.

Four Kittens, Normal in Size, Born Joined Together.

Now that Winnetka, Ill., has worn the edge off its famous problem, "a library or a gas plant," its residents have found a new diversion in trying to figure out whether John Busscher ought to pay taxes on four cats or one.

The basis for the problem has been furnished by the family cat at the Busscher home. On election day she gave birth to four kittens, but the quartet were joined together in the fashion popularized by the Siamese twins.

All of the kittens are normal in size, but they have pooled their anatomies, so that they have formed a veritable cat octopus, with sixteen legs, eight eyes and thirty-six livers.

Mrs. Busscher hopes that when the voices develop they will prove to be soprano, contralto, tenor and bass.

The Man With Forty Ghosts. A popular novelist talked with regard about the old ghost habit of the past.

"Famous painters first and famous writers afterward alike had ghosts," he said. "These ghosts were pupils, disciples. They did the basic work of the master's picture or novel, and the master polished up, put on the finishing touches and signed his name to it. This practice, indeed, still obtains in architecture. It was a practice that allowed a popular artist a manifold increase of production and consequently of income. Dumas, the elder Dumas, had no less than forty ghosts—forty intelligent young men writing away for him about D'Artagnan, Portos, Aramis and the rest. But Dumas was reckless, and the existence of his forty ghosts became known; hence a good deal of scandal. At the height of this scandal Dumas said to a lady one night:

"Have you read my last book, madame?"

"The lady, with a mischievous smile, replied:

"No, M. Dumas. Have you?"

"I suppose, though, I must have dozed off now and then, but the first night seemed to me the longest I have ever passed. I thought of my poor mate. I thought of my wife and children in France, and I prayed the Blessed Virgin to save me.

"At last morning broke. I searched the sea for some sign of the Mimosa or some other ship, but I could see nothing. The first morning I cut a notch in the side of the boat to show that a day had passed, and this I did every day regularly after that.

"The next night was worse than the first; the weather was frightful; the sea seemed to be running mountains high. The boat was swamped over and over again, and I made up my mind I was going to be drowned.

"Finally I took stock of my provisions. I found at the end of the fifth day that the water had given out, and I only had food for one day more. After I had eaten my last biscuit I grew so thirsty that I took a small drink of salt water to wash it down.

"The next day I had no food, but toward night it began to rain, and I caught some of the water and drank it. Then I think I must have got light headed. The dory seemed to me to be full of people, and my wife came, and gave me bread. I found in the morning that I had eaten half of one of my mittens.

"I had long ago lost all reckoning of where I was. The last night before I was picked up was frightful. I heard voices, voices, everywhere whispering to me, calling me. Then I grew frightened; the horrible loneliness appalled me.

THE DELAYED STEAL.

Scientific Baseball Trick Described by Expert Murnane.

RUNNER TAKES WIDE LEAD.

"A Wide Awake Lot of Players on the Bases Can Defeat a Team of Sluggers," Says the Famous Veteran Critic.

By TIM MURNANE.

The delayed steal was worked last season as never before until with several teams base running became one of the most important parts of the game, and it required a clever catcher to stop it even with sharp, accurate throwing.

Ever on the alert, the runner would take the limit of ground off first. A throw to first would see him off for second, where he would beat the throw five times out of six.

Then, again, the runner would hold his ground until the catcher had started the ball back to the pitcher, when he would dart for second. As the second baseman and shortstop were playing wide and deep, it was a race for the base, with the pitcher hesitating as to who would take the ball, with the chances all in favor of the runner landing safe. This play was also tried—and successfully—with a man on third, the runner making home as the ball was thrown to second base. The delay

(Boston sporting editor, president of the New England league and member of the board of arbitration of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues.)

In starting was sure to throw off the men who were picked to take the ball, and while the basemen were sizing up the situation the base runners were making ground on either or both ends of the play.

A wide awake lot of players on the bases, willing to take a chance, will defeat a team of sluggers in a season's play. Base running is the purest science of the game and the most picturesque department.

The double steal, the delayed steal and the steal when the hitting is light is a hard game to beat and especially so if the throwing is not above the average.

With base runners for opponents the strongest teams will have to keep a sharp lookout for a fine base runner is more dreaded when he comes to the bat than the heaviest slugger in the business.

Base running has been overlooked by too many baseball managers of the present time.

TENNEY'S CLEVER TRICK.

Boston National Captain Has a Scheme to Block Sacrifice Hit.

Fred Tenney and his Boston National players have developed a play that needs looking into and before the season is over will be used by every club in the country. This play blocks the sacrifice, something almost impossible under the old tactics.

With a runner on second and first and no one out, the batter's play is to sacrifice and move both men up a base. As soon as the ball is bunted toward third the third baseman rushes for the ball, and at the same time the shortstop digs out for third base. Instead of throwing to first, the usual move, the third baseman turns about and throws to the shortstop, who has covered the third bag.

As the runner doesn't need to be touched, it makes the play sure and easy for the umpire to decide.

With the play properly completed there are still two on bases and one out, with the runners stationary, as before.

Tenney is given credit for thinking this play out, and it is a peach.

The Boston club has played it twice, once in Philadelphia and again at Boston, and in each instance the opposing team was dumfounded by the ease with which it was worked.

A HUMAN BRICK.

Suicide's Ashes Pressed Into a Block and Buried.

The first human brick in history lies in Hand in Hand cemetery, West Roxbury, Mass.

The brick is composed of five parts of cement and one part ashes. The ashes are the mortal remains of Herman Unger, who took his own life on Memorial day in a Boston hotel. Pressed into the face of the brick are these words:

Died May 30th, 1907.
HERMAN UNGER.
Leave me in peace.

Unger was a traveling salesman from Pittsburg. Life did not go well with Herman Unger, and natural pessimism was only increased by hardship.

It is said that he believed that the human body after death would be revived in the form of a flowering growth which would spring from his mortal flesh. This thought was repulsive to him. He desired some disposition of his body which would preclude any such resurrection.

When he took poison on Memorial day he left a will in which he directed that his corpse be cremated and that the ashes be mixed with sufficient cement to form solid rock. This request was carried out, the brick being molded in a small square box. When it had nearly set the epitaph was cut into it. The brick was buried June 12.

WEDDING ON WHEELS.

Bride, Bridegroom and Minister Skate to the Altar.

Susan Pierce, the nineteen-year-old daughter of John and Mary Pierce of 105 West Ninety-fifth street, New York city, has had many a good skating time with Raymond Barrett, who lives at 53 West Twenty-fifth street and repairs skates at the rink at Paradise park, Fort George. They began it last winter when the two young people first met. June 14 in the rink the Rev. George Dalton of Brooklyn, also on roller skates, married them. They departed at once for Atlantic City on a honeymoon.

At 9:30 p. m. the leader of the orchestra at the rink stopped his men for a little rest and preparation, passed around something bracing and started them swinging on the Lohengrin wedding march. Raymond and Susan, on their roller skates, started swirling around the rink, cutting up all the clever dices that one can cut under such circumstances. They were followed by William Tosner, best man, and Hattie Monroe, maid of honor. Couples of flower girls followed. Some 600 couples joined the procession.

When the Lohengrin march had been finally and fully executed a curtained platform was rolled out to the center of the rink. Into that skated the Rev. George Dalton, followed by the wedding party on wheels. Susan said "Yes" without her foot slipping; Raymond delivered his consent without accident. Then they all got down on the rink floor again.

Once more the orchestra leader keyed up his artists for a great prearranged effort. They whirled into that pretty little ditty entitled "Love Me and the World is Mine." Raymond and Susan once more led the procession.

INTO THE PLATFORM SKATED THE REV. GEORGE DALTON.

sion, but they were pursued. It took a dozen attendants thirty minutes to clean up the old shoes and other romantic missiles after it was all over.

The wedding guests captured a trolley car at the upper end of the Amsterdam avenue line, decorated it with ancient shoes, worn-out old flags and placards designed to tell the passing public that a happy couple was aboard. At One Hundred and Eighty-first street the couple deserted that for a subway train.

PREPARES THEM FOR DEATH.

But Police Dig Them Out, While Clergyman Kneels Beside Them, Himself in Imminent Peril From Overhanging Bank.

Reckless nothing of his own danger, the Rev. Father Eugene Porcile, pastor of Our Lady of Lourdes church, Brooklyn, administered the last rites to four semiconscious men buried under a deep mass of earth and rocks that fell from one wall of an excavation twenty-five feet deep.

Another fall momentarily impended, but under the bulging wall of earth knelt the good gray priest, who is seventy years old, encouraging the suffering men, assuring them they would be rescued, consoling them, finally preparing them for the end that for awhile seemed inevitable.

The inspiring presence of Father Porcile and of Father Parker, his assistant, calmed a tumultuous scene. Men who had been running here and there wildly, uselessly, uncovered their heads, and some women dropped on their knees as the priest blessed the four.

The injured men were Antonio Balmero, twenty-eight years old; Gohano Catione, forty years old; Antonio Munda, nineteen years old, and Joseph Sissipi, forty years old.

Several others were slightly hurt. Twenty-five men were digging in the excavation at Stone avenue and Herkimer street, East New York, where will stand public school No. 113, occupying one-fourth of the block. Carelessly the workers on the excavation had dug deep into the base of one of its sides, leaving the top overhanging. Without an instant's warning the top stratum of earth and stones fell on a dozen workmen. The others ran yelling.

Eight men extricated themselves and limped away. All these were so terrified that they gave no help to the four who were buried. They struggled as best they could to free themselves. Some women hurrying from the church caught a glimpse of a man's head as it protruded from the fallen mass. At the sight two women fainted and almost fell into the excavation. Others, shrieking, ran away. Precious little more would have precipitated a panic.

Soon Captain James G. Reynolds and patrolmen of the Brownsville police station arrived, tore off their white gloves, yanked off their uniform coats, grabbed shovels which the terrified laborers had dropped, set to work in the mud and dug, dug, dug, carefully, but mightily, until they uncovered the four men's heads.

"I am dying," murmured Antonio Balmero. "Get me a priest."

Two men rushed to the rectory of Our Lady of Lourdes, several blocks away. They had not to urge the aged Father Porcile or Father Parker to return with them. To reach the suffering men they had to walk down a narrow plank to a depth which will be the school's subcellar. There in the mud and stony debris Father Porcile knelt for fifteen minutes. At any instant more of the overhanging top of the bank might have fallen on him.

The earth that had fallen shifted so that the police tied ropes under the armholes of the four men and that they might not sink deeper again forced the other laborers to hold the ropes taut.

While the digging progressed Drs. McMurray and Hart of St. Mary's hospital and Drs. Johnson and Ebersohl of the Bradford Street hospital reached the scene and gave the four sufferers stimulants. When they were lifted from what had nearly been their graves Balmero and Catione were so nearly gone that the four physicians performed artificial respiration on them.

CHIC STYLES.

Stunning Effects in Striped Voile. Smart Silk Sunshades.

Checked voile in a dark color with white dots makes a stunning bodice that will be particularly serviceable for wear on cool spring days. As the material is too sheer to be practical, a slip of some dainty light silk must be used as a lining.

Although the linen parasol is still exceedingly fashionable, the silk parasol seems to be also decidedly popular among the newest early summer fashions. The lingerie parasol, with its wealth of lace and embroidery, will undoubtedly hold its own, but the plain linen parasol for less elaborate occasions, which was so overwhelmingly popular last season, still this year shares the honors with silk sunshades.

All sorts of weaves in straw are fashionable, although the preference is for the lighter and more transparent. Crin is used again, but the extremely fine straw is really smarter, the best hats being light in weight, no matter how much trimming there is on them.

For morning the brown silk sunshades are rivaling the green shades which have been popular for so many seasons. They are shown not only in the ruffled parasols, but in those finished in tucks and hemstitching.

The gown pictured is of green and white striped voile. The ruffled skirt is very smart and easy for the home dressmaker to manage. The skeleton bodice has a blouse and sleeves of lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Scalped by a Simian.

Enraged by the screams and laughter of the crowd around his cage, an old monkey belonging to a dog and pony show reached through the bars at Duquesne, Pa., and literally lifted the scalp from Ralph Eberle, a twelve-year-old boy, standing close to the wagon. The boy screamed in agony, and the animal keepers beat the animal for several minutes before its hold could be broken. With the blood running in torrents, the boy was hurried to a hospital, where physicians say his condition is extremely critical. Five minutes before the boy was attacked the monkey hurled a tobacco pipe through the bars of the cage, striking a man on the head and knocking him down.

Played Checkers With a Corpse.

William Edington of Columbus, O., in a game of checkers with Judson Bagley moved into the king row and crowned his man. After waiting for fifteen minutes he said: "It's your move, Jud. Make some kind of a play, and don't be so slow about it." There was no response. An investigation disclosed that Bagley was dead, although he was sitting erect, apparently studying a move.

DOG BELIEVED IT WAS A LITTLE BOY

REMARKABLE FOX TERRIER
CHEWED GUM AND HAD OTHER HUMAN HABITS.

BECAME ILL LIKE CHILDREN

Jealous of Strange Babies, But Not
His "Brother"—Ate, Slept and Bathed Like a Child—His Untimely Death.

Omaha, Neb.—A crushed jeweled dog collar with a white bow is all that remains of the Omaha dog that thought itself a little boy. Like many another "child" it has paid the penalty of heedlessness and met death beneath an electric car. But the memory that it leaves long will survive, and the story of its brief life will be used as another argument for the theory of transmigration.

Whether or not Teddy was a reincarnation was a matter of doubt, only with others. It had no uncertainty about it. It was firmly convinced that it was a human, subject to the appetites and errors of a human and altogether in the same case as its child associates.

It was a small fox terrier of unimpeachable lineage and perfect markings, the property of Mrs. Gertrude Broadhurst. It had been reared in the family from the moment of its earliest puppyhood, and behaved in every respect just as the two children did. Whatever they ate it ate, and it would carry the meal round in its mouth until they sat down, when it would sit between them and eat with them.

It scorned raw meat and would have nothing to do with cooked meat from the table unless it was properly cut into tiny bits for a little boy's mouth, and when this was not complied with it barked its remonstrance.

Teddy was susceptible to the same ills as the children. It took cold in its throat when it played too long in the sharp air. Then it would gravely present itself to its mistress to be doctored. When she brought out the turpentine and lard and rubbed the throat it was satisfied, but would not move till a rag was tied around it.

One of its most amusing human habits was the chewing of gum. Whenever the children started for their pieces, stuck high out of his reach, the doggie would rush under the table where its own private hoard was concealed behind one of the legs and its jaws would move with rhythmical joy for an hour afterward.

Whenever the children bathed Teddy sat by the tub until they were through, when it would get in and have its bath. It would then drag at the baby's high chair and make it understood that it desired to have it put behind the stove. When this was accomplished it mounted and lay there until it was entirely dry.

Teddy was devoted to Mrs. Broadhurst. When she was ill at the hospital for two weeks it almost starved itself to death.

The telephone was no novelty to the little dog. It understood what was going on and was quick to recognize Mr. Broadhurst's voice across the wire.

Its association with its own kind was only out of doors. It might play with them in the yard, but it never permitted another dog to cross the threshold.

In the house Teddy was distinctly a child. If Mrs. Broadhurst petted a strange baby Teddy would go into another room and refuse to come out till the baby left the house, though it showed no jealousy of its own "brothers and sisters." It played hide and seek with them and invariably took its nap with them in the afternoon.

When Teddy was punished Mrs. Broadhurst sent the dog to bed as she did her little ones. Teddy would remain about half an hour, then come creeping out, almost on tiptoe and lie on her gown. If its mistress spoke sharply it would rush back to bed, but if the greeting was kindly it was overjoyed, saying in its looks as plainly as words, "I will be a good boy, now."

Large sums had been offered the family from time to time for the dog, but they had refused any figure for Teddy and were inconsolable at his loss.

Teddy Had to Be Nursed Like a Sick Child.

DUTCH GAP IN COURT

Writ of Mandamus Issued to Force Clerk to Recognize Maaske as Supervisor

CLAIM MAASKE NO CITIZEN

Town Clerk Adams Refuses to Accept His Oath of Office on the Ground That He Never Became Naturalized

The famous "Dutch Gap" in the town of Bristol has finally found its way into the Circuit Court, for late Monday afternoon of this week, Court Commissioner Henry Hastings issued a writ of mandamus to force Henry Adams, town clerk of the town of Bristol, to recognize the claims of Herman Maaske, one of the strongest defendants of the ditch, as a member of the town board of the town of Bristol.

The writ was served on Clerk Adams late Monday evening but as yet no action has been taken in the matter. In connection with the issuance of the writ a suit has been filed in the Circuit Court to determine the standing of Maaske as a member of the town board and the question raised by the suit is one of the most interesting ever laid before the circuit court for that district.

It is claimed that the whole trouble arises over the fight for or against the digging of the ditch commonly known as the "Dutch Gap". This question is not a new one as the members of the town board and the farmers have been fighting over the ditch for several years. Last year the town board consisting of Frank Shurt, chairman, Henry L. Adams, clerk, and Emmett Shields and Julius Ramus decided against the completion of the ditch on the plans that had been formerly made and at once the men who favored the completion of the ditch carried the matter into politics. Herman Maaske, one of the best known of the German farmers in the town of Bristol, was a supporter of the plan for completing the ditch at once, and he was selected by his friends as a candidate for the office of side supervisor. When the election was held Maaske was elected by a large majority and within the time allowed by law he appeared at the office of the town clerk to file his oath of office.

Clerk Adams, it is alleged, refused to allow him to allow him to file his oath or to sit as a member of the town board. Maaske had been elected to succeed Julius Ramus, but the latter is still sitting as a member of the board the other members holding that he is entitled to sit on the board until his successor has been elected and qualified.

The Clerk declares that Maaske is not a citizen of the United States, and that for this reason it would be impossible for him to hold the office of side supervisor. The records of the county show that Maaske took out his first papers in 1894, but he has never taken out his second papers. When he was refused a place on the board Maaske retained R. V. Baker to secure his rights for him, and the writ of mandamus is the first step in the fight.

The members of the Town Board will insist that the matter of the right of Maaske to hold office be settled in the courts before a place on the Board is given to him. The attorney for Maaske holds that it is not necessary for him to be a citizen to hold the office of Supervisor, and that the fact that he is an elector in the town of Bristol is all that is demanded to make it possible for him to qualify.

Maaske has taken steps to get his second papers but it will be some time before they can be issued to him. It is claimed that so long as Maaske is off the Board the opposition to the big ditch will be in control but that with Maaske on the Board the balance would be in favor of the completion of the ditch.

The town clerk and other members of the Board have not as yet filed an answer to the complaint but it is understood that the answer will be filed in time to have the matter come up for trial at the September term of the Circuit Court.

MEADE AGAIN ARRESTED

Youth Charged With Sending Obscene Letters Through the Mails.

Ernest Meade, a Kenosha man, is again in the clutches of the United States Courts as he was arrested at Grayslake on Thursday of last week, charged with sending indecent letters through the mail. He was taken to Chicago and the hearing of the case was adjourned for a week. The letters on which the arrest of Meade was based were written to a young Kenosha girl who is a cousin of Meade.

This is the second time Meade has fallen into the hands of the federal authorities on the same offense. The same woman figured prominently in the prosecution of Meade on a former occasion. Meade is now in Chicago and is being held for trial. The young man belongs to a well known family in Kenosha but for some time he seems to have been suffering from mental weakness.

At one time an effort was made to send him to the state hospital for the insane, but at the examination at the County Court the physician found that Meade was not insane but feeble minded. At that time it was impossible to get him into a home for the feeble minded and his relative took charge of him and sent him to Grayslake with the desire of giving him a change of employment. While in Kenosha Meade had worked as a drug clerk, and he was once arrested and sent to jail on the charge of annoying the young woman to whom he is alleged to have written the indecent letters. Just as soon as Meade reached Grayslake he began writing the letters and after a time the girl turned them over to the police and Meade was arrested. He was released with a small fine, the government officials taking his condition into consideration.

For a long time nothing was heard from Meade but during the last few weeks the indecent letters have been coming again and they so annoyed the young woman that she finally turned them over to the government officials. It is probable that the government will now take steps to put Meade in some institution where it will be impossible for him to annoy the people with this class of literature.

STATE TO GET $2,000,000 FROM SMITH ESTATE

Counsel for executors of the estate of James Henry Smith of Tuxedo Park, who died in Japan, have secured an order from Surrogate Howell of Orange county, N. Y., directing William P. Gregg of Port Jervis the state transfer tax appraiser to appraise the estate of the late millionaire to determine the amount of the transfer tax due the state.

The appraisal will be conducted mainly in New York city, where the securities are stored.

It is understood that there is also property in London, England which is liable to a tax under the laws of the state.

The state of New York will get about $2,000,000 in transfer tax from the estate.

IMPRISONED BY DEAD BEAR.

Hunter Trapped in Cave by Carcass of Slain Bruin.

Portland, Ore.—Trapped in a bear's den for four days by the body of the animal he had shot was the strange experience of Lee Fleschman, of Promis, Wallawa county, Ore.

In company with two friends, Fleschman went on a hunting trip to the head waters of Mud-creek. His companions returned home later, saying Fleschman had preceded them three days. He had not reached home, and a search party was organized.

Tracks were found showing that the missing man had trailed a bear, and after a time the party came to a cave and espied a bear lying against the mouth of the den. Two shots were fired at the animal, when a shout from within told them the bear had already been killed.

Fleschman had tracked the bear to its lair and entered to shoot it, when Bruin made a dash to escape and ran over the hunter. He killed the bear before it reached the opening, and the carcass filled the narrow passage in such a manner that Fleschman was unable to move it.

He had spent four days in the den and was nearly famished.

Arm Breaks; Defers Spanking.

Almont, Mich.—"It hurts me more than it does you to do this," said Mrs. William Manning the other day as she was preparing to administer punishment in the customary manner to her offspring, Harold, aged 12, who had misbehaved. Harold didn't reply in the language of the aged joke. He wriggled away just as mamma's hand fell quickly and firmly. But it was really mamma who was hurt, for her arm was broken between the wrist and elbow. Some one else will punish Harold hereafter.

SKOKIE TO BE DRAINED

To Locate the Drainage Pumping Station Between Lake Bluff and Waukegan

CHANCE TO TREAT SEWAGE

To Redeem Thousands of Acres of Now Worthless Lands at Practically no Expense to North Shore Towns.

To drain the historic Skokie marsh along the North Shore; to locate the drainage district pumping station at a point between Lake Bluff and Waukegan, instead of at Evanston; to redeem thousands of acres of now worthless lands at practically no expense to the North Shore towns.

These are plans now being discussed among Lake county people, with a prospect that they will be carried to a successful conclusion, which means thousands of additional dollars in Lake county pockets.

As plans have been made, the Chicago drainage district, excavations for which have been in progress for months, is to end at Evanston with a pumping station.

Passengers on the Northwestern have remarked on the queer excavations for months.

However, Lake county and North Shore people propose to have these plans changed and will ask that the pumping station be located at some point north of Lake Bluff, so that the Skokie and other marshes along the shore can be drained off and the marsh land transformed into tillable, saleable land.

It is claimed that this project is perfectly feasible and those who support it are visiting the various towns and cities affected to gain support to their plan.

The improvement, it is understood, is done out of a general fund of the state, and for this reason, it is said, North Shore towns would not suffer any special assessment or tax.

Seven-sixteenths of the district, it is claimed, is outside the district of Chicago, so that Chicago would have no objection to the scheme.

Lands belonging to Oawentia and Ex-mor will be affected by the new drainage district and at the same time the Skokie is drained, a sort of canal will drain the Cunningham marsh north of Rondout and east, redeeming still more acreage from the curse of uselessness, due to marshes and sink holes.

ITALIAN WAS SHOT AT TWIN LAKES

An Italian section hand was accidentally shot at Twin Lakes one day last week, while hunting.

The particulars of the affair as near as we have been able to learn, are to the effect that the Italian had started out on a hunting expedition and while walking along the railroad track he came upon a gopher, which he attempted to kill by striking it with the butt end of the gun.

The force of the blow discharged the weapon and the entire contents of the gun entered the man's breast, causing almost instant death.

Wm. McKesson of Powers Lake held an inquest over the body. The remains were buried in the Catholic cemetery.

SALT CELLAR OF LONG AGO.

Was Distinctive Mark of Caste in the Middle Ages.

"This is a medieval salt cellar," said the antiquary. "It is huge, it is shaped like a castle, it is solid silver and the price—but what is the use telling the price to you? Very magnificent, eh? In the middle age, you know, the salt cellar was the principal table ornament. Guests sat above or below the salt as they were prominent or the reverse. Where do you think you'd have sat, eh? Queer table manners they had in those days. The fastidious had individual knives, forks and spoons, but the common people ate with their fingers. You helped yourself from the general dish with your own spoon if you had one, but if you were very fastidious you looked the spoon clean first. The food was queer—rich, rank food—swans, herons, porpoises, garlic, verjuice, saffron. There was meat and wine in floods and ushers stood about whose duty it was to lead to convenient couches such guests as had dined too well. These ushers, being overworked, were continually striking for more pay. The hours were queer, too. Breakfast, dinner, tea, supper, four o'clock in the afternoon."

JUVENILE FIRE BUGS CAPTURED

Three Boys Aged Six and Eight Years Frustrated in Attempt to Burn Building

FIRE DISCOVERED IN TIME

Boys are Identified With Stolen Bicycle in their Possession—Police Say They are Bad Boys

Going to the rear of the Hein-Ornstein store on North Genesee street, Waukegan, Monday evening, R. C. Huntington, who is employed there in the capacity of advertising man, was just in time to see three small boys strike a match and drop it into a large box of paper which was standing on the rear platform of the Whyte Furniture store. Seeing what they were up to, he rushed out and succeeded in extinguishing the blaze before it had burned to any extent. Had he not been there at just the moment the fire was started it probably would have communicated itself to the surrounding buildings.

It was rather dark at the time but Mr. Huntington caught a good look at one of the youngsters as they scurried away. This fact proved of inestimable value when the police were asked to locate the boys.

Mr. Huntington went to the police station to lodge the complaint and as luck would have it recognized one of the boys who was playing near by. He pointed the lad out to the officers who at once arrested him. He was in company with his brother.

The older boy was riding a girl's bicycle, and thinking that the circumstances looked somewhat suspicious, Chief Tyrrell asked him who the wheel belonged to. The boy replied that it belonged to his brother, but later confessed that he had stolen it Monday night from the rear of Lanyon flats on Genesee street. "It was the property of the little daughter of Fred Markus who lives in the flats. The Markus family had not yet discovered the loss and were much surprised when the wheel was returned by the police."

The boys when taken to the station gave the names of Elvin Barron aged eight years and Milton Barron aged six years. They also implicated the six year old Levi boy, who was hunted up and taken to the station. The police claim that the boys are almost incorrigible and that this is not the first time that they have been in some kind of trouble.

STATES ATTORNEY HANDS OVER FUNDS

Friday State's Attorney Hanna turned over to County Superintendent of Schools, Simpson $2,236 as the money due the school fund from fines which have been collected in the prosecutor's office during the past year. Last year he turned over the sum of $2,300.

The money this year came mostly from the fines for illegal selling of liquor.

A most interesting fact is that the money Mr. Hanna has turned over to the school fund in the two years is within $700 as much in the total as the total amounts which all previous state's attorneys have turned over.

MRS. ROBERT SELTER DEAD

Wife of Well Known Summer Resort Keeper Passes to Her Reward

On Friday night at about 11:30 o'clock occurred the death of Mrs. Robert Selter, at her home at Grass Lake. For the past two months she had been quite ill, the malady being hemorrhage of the brain. During the first few weeks of her illness she was a great sufferer, often enduring the most excruciating pain for hours, with out one word of complaint.

Later she sank into a stupor from which she would rally for only a short time, and for the few days preceding her death she remained in a comatose condition.

It was realized from the first that her condition was very serious, and the best of medical skill was employed. But when on Wednesday of last week a specialist from Chicago was summoned he gave to the family some encouragement for her recovery.

Ella Onzienger was born on the twenty-first day of January in the year of 1867 at Madison, Wisconsin, and passed away at Grass Lake, Illinois on the nineteenth day of July, 1907, in the forty-first year of her life. She was united in marriage to Robert Selter August 29, 1889 and every since that time their home has been at Grass Lake, where they have conducted the resort known as Selter's Sportsman's Home, all their wedded life with the exception of three years.

Of her immediate family she leaves her husband and two children, one daughter, Emma and one son, Walter, who sincerely mourn the loss of a devoted wife and mother, besides a large number of other relatives and friends.

The funeral services were held at the home on Monday afternoon at two o'clock with Rev. F. R. McNamer officiating, and was attended by a large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends who followed the remains to their final resting place.

The floral offerings were many and beautiful and were silent tokens of the regard in which the deceased was held by her many friends.

The interment was in the Grass Lake cemetery.

SEVERE STORM SUNDAY

Kenosha County Visited by Storm Which Does Much Damage.

At about eight o'clock Sunday morning great black clouds began to gather and gave every evidence that a fierce storm was approaching. The clouds seemed to be gathering in the north and to all appearances were being swiftly drifted this way, for a short time everything was in semi-darkness but beyond a very little wind nothing was felt of the storm, in this section.

But while we were watching the sky wondering how severe the storm would be, it was raging in all its fury in Kenosha county. The storm coming up so unexpectedly caught many people at the picnic grounds at Kenosha and all received a thorough drenching.

In the city of Kenosha the rain was like the bursting of a water spout and for more than half an hour the rain fell in torrents. The sewers were absolutely inadequate to take care of the great fall of water and the streets were flooded. The little creeks about the city were filled to their capacity and in several parts of the city cellars were flooded. Considerable loss is reported as a result of the heavy rain.

In the country the growing corn was badly beaten down by the wind and rain and the oats was also badly damaged.

The fury of the storm seemed to center over Kenosha and great damage was done by the wind and lightning. Two cars belonging to the Kenosha electric railway company were struck by lightning and traffic was tied up for some time but the tracks were cleared and the emergency cars were put into service.

The wires of the Kenosha Gas and electric company were down in all parts of the city and many who had been burning the lights during the storm were left in total darkness. The linemen of the company went to work repairing the lines immediately after the storm. The lines of the fire department were struck by lightning and burned out. Many telephones were damaged and workmen are still busy repairing the lines.

Three disastrous fires also resulted from the lightning.

FILES BILL FOR DIVORCE

William Young Defendant in Divorce Proceedings Started Saturday

ALLEGES EXTREME CRUELTY

Also Asks and is Granted Injunction Preventing Young From Transferring His Property

Ethel L. Young of Antioch, has sued her husband, William Young, the man alleged to have killed his son in an accidental battle on May 7, 1906, and who was freed of the alleged charge of murder, for divorce, the papers being filed Saturday.

The bill filed by Mrs. Young seems to shed a new light on the struggle between Young and his alleged victim as Mrs. Young tells the story of the quarrel as she alleges it happened, although she does not mention in the entire bill the name of the dead son.

Even when she lists the children by the marriage, the boy's name is omitted.

The papers, which include a petition for injunction, were filed Saturday and to give time to get service for the injunction simply a number was entered on the record book, so that the case did not become public until Monday.

Master in Chancery Clarke has issued the injunction for Attorney Runyard, who represents Mrs. Young's side of the case.

In her bill Mrs. Young states that she was united to Young October 5, 1881, and resided with him until July, 1907, when she alleges that his ill-treatment alighted her to leave him.

Among alleged acts of cruelty that she cites, are the following:

Young, she says, has beaten, struck, kicked and choked her.

For two years he has been in the habit of going on sprees.

In 1901 he threw a tea pot full of boiling water at her, she says, and she was burned.

Later she claims he held a lighted lamp so near her face that she was again burned. In February, 1902, she says, he threatened her with a shot gun and she had to flee the house and sleep in the barn.

On May 7, 1906, she says, he threw a coconut at her which would have hit her had she not dodged it by warding it off with a pan that she held.

This, it is said, is the incident in which Young's son interfered and met his death, rushing between his father and mother and receiving, by accident as has been proven, a fatal wound from a knife in the hands of his father. Young was freed of the charge of wilful murder.

The bill sets forth the fact that Young is worth over $25,000 and states that there are two children, Emma, aged 18, and Olive, aged 10.

As according to the bill, Young threatens to transfer his property to prevent his wife from getting any of it, she asked the injunction and got it.—Waukegan Sun.

STRUCK BY ELERCRIC CAR NEAR RONDOUT

Lying fast asleep on the tracks of the west branch of the electric road, near Rondout, Saturday night at 11 o'clock, Joe Fischer, a carpenter at the Armour place west of Lake Forest, aged forty-eight, was struck in the head and seriously injured.

Fischer, according to his own story, went to Libertyville early in the evening, and became intoxicated after which, it is believed, he started to walk back to the Armour place, where a man named Kennedy is his foreman.

On the way back he lay down by the side of the tracks and went to sleep with his head against the outer rail, but not on it. The east bound car struck him. His eye was cut badly and a large gash was inflicted on his forehead. He will probably recover.

At a late hour he was removed to the Kane McAllister hospital in Waukegan, the Larson and Conrad ambulance meeting the car.

THE TRAGEDIES OF PARIS.

Record of the Seamy Side of the Gay French Capital.

From 1,000 to 1,500 bodies are recovered in the morgue in Paris every year. These represent suicides and murders, and not the deaths that occur in the ordinary course of events. And of these self-slayers nearly half are drownings, which means that every day at least two persons jump into the Seine; two poor wretches who have failed to find life worth living. In the months of October and November suicides by drowning in Paris are double what they are the remainder of the year. The prospect of having to suffer the hardships of another winter, begging about in the cold and sleeping out in the snow, is too much for many a fat-cursed wanderer.

An interesting fact revealed by the suicide statistics of Paris is that women show a decided dislike to drowning as a means of violent death. Four times as many men as women are fished out of the Seine. The records show that asphyxiation is the favorite way with the weaker sex "for shuffling off this mortal coil," when it has ceased to be bearable.

WHEN TO WIND A WATCH.

The Morning, Not the Evening, the Best Time, the Watchmaker Says.

"Most people," said the watchmaker, "wind their watches at night; but it would be better to wind them in the morning. You see, we are liable to go to bed at different hours, and so wind our watch at irregular intervals; and it is better to wind it regularly. Then we are more liable to forget to wind our watch at night than in the morning and so may let it run down. But we are pretty sure to get up in the morning at our regular hour, whatever the hour at which we went to bed, and so by winding it then we may insure regularity of winding; and the watch is brought to mind then, when we put it on for use, and we are less likely to forget to wind it. So morning is the best time to wind a watch. If you can get yourself into the habit of winding it then."

A Hopping Match.

A match, 20 hops for ten guineas, took place at Loughborough, Leicestershire, between James Shipley, of Nottingham, and a person named Moore, of Leicester. It was very closely contested, so much so that bets of four to one were laid and taken on each side. The match, however, was won by Shipley. On measuring the distance it appeared that Shipley had hopped 75 yards nine or ten inches and Moore something more than 75 yards. The latter was to have run against Shipley on the same day, 140 yards for 40 guineas, but declined, and in consequence forfeited his deposit.—From an English Sporting Magazine of 1807.

Shake Up Botted Water.

The flat taste of drinking water which has been bottled is due to the fact that the dissolved air which it contains has been expelled in the process of bottling. By putting the bottled water in bottles until they are only three-quarters full and shaking well, enough air will be incorporated with the water to restore its palatability.

A Harsh Reminder.

"Of course," said the serene statesman, "I am the logical candidate." "Perhaps," answered Senator Sorghum, "but you want to remember that when it comes to tallying up votes, it's mathematics and not logic that counts."

Courtesy at Home.

We are all creatures of habit men and women alike, and the habits and surroundings of daily life have a powerful influence on the character of both. The root of all bad manners is selfishness, when self ever is first, for the most consideration for others always lags much in the rear, and drops a far behind in time that it disappears altogether. "One cannot keep up the ceremony and etiquette of society when at home." True, for between friends these can be laid aside. They merely are the rivets that keep society together, but not courtesy and consideration. The latter ought to be so much the habit with each of us that it will become our second nature and therefore can be no more laid aside than can an arm or a leg.

LIFE INSURANCE ACTIVITY.

The New York Life's Business Nearly Up to the Legal Limit.

The New York Life Insurance Company announces that its new paleo business during the half year just ended was over seventy million dollars. As the new law allows no life company to write over one hundred and fifty millions per year, it would appear that this company is working nearly up to the limit. The New York Life gained such headway before the law was passed and suffered so little, comparatively, from the Armstrong investigation, that the question with its management has been how to keep business down to the limit, rather than how to reach it. No other company is writing nearly as much as the law allows. The New York Life has evidently become a preferred company.

The company's payments to policy holders during the six months ending June 30 were $21,660,761. It is interesting to note that this amount was almost equally divided between payments under policies maturing by death and payments made to living policy holders. Thus, while death claims were $11,180,626, the amount paid for matured endowments, annuities, trust fund installments, for purchased policies and for dividends was $10,480,135. Modern life insurance, as practiced by the best companies, embraces a wide field, and covers many contingencies. It is money saved for the aged, as well as money provided for the families of those who die prematurely.

Modesty of True Greatness.

About Ben Adhem had just found out that his name led all the rest "Still," he observed, with a modest as rare as it was charming, "the season is young yet. I've made a few lucky hits, it's true, but just as likely as not I shall be at the bottom of the percentage column in battling before the season ends." Smilingly accepting the bouquet of cut flowers sent him by an admirer in the grandstand he stepped up to the plate, struck out, dodged a lemon thrown at him by a disgusted bleacherite, and went and took his seat on the bench.

A Trouble Maker.

Towne—"The other day I helped my friend Dumbley to select a beautiful etching—Browne—"Don't mention Dumbley to me; he's no friend of mine.

Towne—"Why, he told me he was going to send the etching as a present to you—

Browne—"So he did and my wife made me rearrange all the other pictures in the parlor to make room for it and I'm not done yet.

Unkind Advice.

Two Irishmen were eating the lunch, when one asked the other "Pat, an' what be you thinking about?"

Pat replied: "Shure, Mike, I was thinking how I would be getting my clothes over me wings when I would get to heaven."

"You would better be thinking how you would be getting your hat over your horns when you get to the other place," answered Mike.—Ally Sloper

MEAT OR CEREALS.

A Question of Interest to All Carnivorous Persons.

Arguments on food are interesting. Many persons adopt a vegetarian diet on the ground that they do not like to feel that life has been taken to feed them, nor do they fancy the thought of eating dead meat.

On the other hand, too great consumption of partly cooked, starchy cereals and wheat or white bread, pastries, etc., produces serious bowel trouble because the bowel digestive organs (where starch is digested), are overtaxed and the food ferments, producing gas, and microbes generate in the decayed food, frequently bringing on peritonitis and appendicitis.

Starchy food is absolutely essential to the human body. Its best form shown in the food "Grape-Nuts," where the starch is changed into a form sugar during the process of its manufacture. In this way, the required food is presented to the system in a pre-digested form and is immediately made into blood and tissue, without taxing the digestive organs.

A remarkable result in nourishment is obtained; the person using Grape-Nuts gains quickly in physical and mental strength. Why in meats? Because the food contains delicate particles of Phosphate of Potash obtained from the grains, and this unit with the albumen of all food and this combination is what nature uses to build worn out cells in the brain. This is a scientific fact that can easily be proven by ten day's use of Grape-Nuts. "There's a Reason Read, 'The Road to Wellville.'" rises

ARMENIAN MERCHANT KILLED BECAUSE HE WOULDN'T PAY.

NINE OTHERS MARKED

Secret Organization, Originally for Patriotic Purposes, Now the Tool of Cowardly Villain in New York.

New York.—Seeking a motive for the murder Monday of H. S. Tavshanjan, the Armenian rug merchant, the district attorney's office was led Tuesday to an investigation of a report that Tavshanjan was one of ten wealthy Armenians who had been marked for slaughter if they failed to give up $10,000 each to a blackmailing band of their countrymen.

From sources, carefully protected by the authorities, came information of a startling character and said to be accurate. This is to the effect that a secret society of Armenians, originally organized for what the members held to be patriotic, though revolutionary purposes, has degenerated into an instrument for blackmail.

The killing of Tavshanjan and the others, it was stated, was planned more than a year ago. They received letters which they interpreted as meaning that they must pay or take the consequences. The threatened men discussed the matter at a meeting. Tavshanjan was present. A number of the merchants were in favor of acceding to the demand.

"Better give them money and live," they said.

"No," said Tavshanjan. "As a matter of principle we should not pay. You can do as you will. They will get nothing from me."

"This is the work of an Armenian in this city who is the worst man in the world," said a prominent Armenian. "He has been responsible for many murders and lesser crimes, and, too cowardly to commit them himself, he gets men of small intellect to do the work for him by making them believe that they are working for their country." Another well-to-do Armenian said: "A priest who tried to fight the band was murdered in Odessa. Father Kasper Vartarian, killed in this city, was another victim."

CORNER IN BLUE GRASS SEED.

Kentucky Syndicate Buys Practically All in the Country.

Paris, Ky.—A syndicate composed of J. S. Wilson, E. F. Spears & Sons, of this city, and D. S. Gay, of Winchester, Tuesday closed a deal by which they become the possessors of about 700,000 bushels of Kentucky blue grass seed, practically all there is in the country with the exception of about 10,000 bushels.

It is estimated it will take $500,000 to finance the deal. The seed is to be delivered by August 1, the market opening on that day. The annual demand averages about 500,000 bushels, a large part of which goes to Europe.

BIG SENSATION IN LOUISVILLE.

Retiring County Clerk Arrested for Embezzling $45,000.

Louisville, Ky.—William J. Semonin, retiring county clerk, was arrested Tuesday afternoon on a charge of embezzlement, it being alleged that he is short in his accounts as clerk of Jefferson county in a sum approximating from $45,000 to $50,000. The arrest was made at the instance of Mayor Bingham and caused a great sensation.

Semonin declares there is no shortage, in a legal or moral sense, as he owes the state only about $22,000 collected in June and July, which he will pay in full.

KILLED IN SHAM BATTLE.

Premature Explosion of Blank Charge at Fort Terry Fatal.

Fort Terry, Plum Island, N. Y.—By a premature explosion of a blank charge of one of the six-inch rifle guns at battery Bradford, this post, shortly before noon Tuesday, Private George Hammond, of the One Hundredth company coast artillery, U. S. A., was killed and four others were injured, one man seriously. Sergeant Benjamin W. Banks may lose the sight of both eyes.

Col. Will S. Hays Is Dead.

Louisville, Ky.—Col. Will S. Hays, the veteran river editor of the Courier Journal, song writer and poet, died at his home here Tuesday of vertigo caused by a stroke of paralysis suffered in the Ironclads theater fire in Chicago. He was 70 years old. Col. Hays always claimed the authorship of the original words of "Dixie" and said that he was responsible for the arrangement of the music. His most famous song was "Molly Darling," the sales of which reached 2,000,000 copies.

"Sensible to the Last."

An old Scotch lady used to be attended by a doctor to whom she invariably gave a guinea when he went to see her. He had told the friends with whom she lived that her death would probably be sudden, and one day he was hurriedly sent for, as she appeared to have become unconscious. On his arrival he saw at once that the old lady was dead, and, taking hold of her right hand, which was closed, but not rigid, he calmly extracted from it the fee which she had provided for him, and as he did so he murmured: "Sensible to the last."

WOMEN WHO
Health Is the First Essential for a Woman

MISS HULDA KUGLER

There is a beauty and attractiveness in health which is far greater than mere regularity of feature.

A sickly, irritable, and complaining woman always carries a cloud of depression with her; she is not only unhappy herself but is a damper to all joy and happiness when with her family and friends.

It is the bright, healthy, vivacious woman who always charms and carries sunshine wherever she goes.

If a woman finds that her energies are flagging and that everything tires her; if her feminine system fails to perform its allotted duties, there is nervousness, sleeplessness, faintness, backache, headache, bearing down pains, and irregularities, causing constant misery and melancholia, she should remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made from native roots and herbs will dispel these troubles. By correcting the cause of the trouble it cures where other treatment may have failed.

Miss Elizabeth Wynn, of No. 20 6th Avenue, New York City, writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"For months I suffered with dreadful headaches, pain in the back and severe hemorrhages. I was weak and out of sorts all the time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me when all other medicine had failed." It seemed to be just what I needed and quickly restored my health.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

There is something lacking about that defaulting paying teller Runyan up in New York. None of the papers have scheduled him as a constant church goer and a prominent member of the Y. M. C. A.

Carrie Nation assured a police court judge last week that she would never go to hell. Well, at any rate, that is some consolation for the people who are unfortunate enough to have that place for a final home.

King Edward is just starting on his second visit to Ireland and with an increasingly hard prospect ahead, for in addition to sitting on the Nationalists, he will have to snub Dick Coker and appear genial all at the same time.

It is to be hoped for the sake of the general public that Judge Landis will not make the fine on the Standard Oil Company too heavy. Kerosene costs enough as it is, and it will be certain to go up enough to cover the amount of the fine.

War, war wholesale or retail, war in twenty-four hours, war in a week or war in six months. Anyone who wants war can get just the sort they require by picking their newspaper to that end. There are even some old foggy sheets declaring there will not be any war at all. And probably they are just as far right as any of the rest. This is, of course, war between Japan and the United States—war talk is so rife that it is almost unnecessary to mention the combatants. There probably will be war, but it is not in sight, and when it comes the voyage of the battle-ship squadron around Cape Horn will have passed into history and been half forgotten. A decade is not a week in the life of a nation, and probably it will be a decade before Japan thinks she is in a position to fight the United States. When she thinks she is in that position, physically and financially, the fight will come. The provocation may be a restaurant row in San Francisco or our oppression of the natives in the Solu Archipelago. The provocation does not matter much. It will be found when it is wanted. But for the present Japan knows she is not in condition to fight us, and we do not want to fight Japan. There it can rest. But those who want a paper war of any sort can get it by subscribing to the right sort of a paper.

Judge K. M. Landis of Chicago, who is just in progress of deciding how big a fine the Standard Oil Company can stand without being absolutely put out of business, is not a native Washingtonian, but he is well known in the Capital from the fact that he was private secretary to Walter Gresham when the latter was Secretary of State under Cleveland. The "E. M." in front of his business name stands for the rather unusual christening name of "Eusebius Mountain." It happened that little Landis was born on the day of that famous battle in which his father participated. The baby was named for the battlefield. While private secretary to Gresham, young Landis ran the State Department single-handed a great many times, for his chief was often ill toward the end of the term. But one of the dry remarks of his chief that Judge Landis is fond of quoting was made when the two of them first came to Washington. They were stopping at a hotel, but were anxiously looking for a house. The Secretary of State had to have a house for purpose of official entertainment, whether he wanted to be saddled with one or not. They had looked all day, and in the evening had settled on the only really available and desirable one. It cost $7,500 a year. A cabinet officer's salary at that time was $8,000. Judge Gresham was lying on the sofa smoking after dinner, as was his custom. After a long silence, he appealed to his secretary. "Say, Landis, it has just occurred to me. What in the devil are we going to do with that other $500?"

For that Dandruff

There is one thing that will cure it—Ayer's Hair Vigor. It is a regular scalp-medicine. It quickly destroys the germs which cause this disease. The unhealthy scalp becomes healthy. The dandruff disappears, had to disappear. A healthy scalp means a great deal to you—healthy hair, no dandruff, no pimples, no eruptions. The best kind of a testimonial—"Sold for over sixty years."

I will mail you free, to prove merit, samples of my Dr. Shoop's Restorative and my book on either Dyspepsia, The Heart, or The Kidneys. Troubles of the stomach, heart or kidneys are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, and not the cause. Weak stomach nerves—the inside nerves—mean stomach weakness, always. And the heart, and kidneys as well, have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken these nerves, and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. No other remedy even claims to treat the "inside nerves." Also for bloating, biliousness, bad breath or complexion, use Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Write me today for sample and free book. Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. The Restorative is sold by J. H. Swan.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes.

The kidneys are your blood purifiers. They filter out the waste or impurities in the blood. If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work.

Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries.

It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle by mail. Home of Swamp-Root, free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism. Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor can it grow the back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pang of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredients with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, I truly can cure all cases of this horrible, much dreaded disease. These seed-like granular vesicles, found in Rheumatic Blood, must be dissolved and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous vesicles freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual reason to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend

Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy

In Fact, Every Item in Both Waukegan and Kenosha Stores go 50c On The Dollar

Means that everything in the stocks will go at just exactly half of what the regular price tag calls for. You know our price tags are all marked in plain red figures, and we stake our business reputation that not a single price has been marked up or altered in any way for this sale. Every tag positively shows the regular selling price at which the goods were placed in stock and all you have to do is deduct half the price the tag calls for and you have the price at which the item goes at this sale.

For instance, Waists marked 98c go at 49c, Skirts marked $2.48 go at $1.24, Suits marked $5 go at $2.50, Jackets marked $3.98 at $1.89 and every item in the store likewise

This stock is all bright and new, purchased in 1907 for our Spring and Summer trade; it all goes even if it only has been in a week, and this includes all the dainty White Dresses that are always the rage in August. Example, White Dresses marked $3.98 go at $1.99.

Any manufacturer would be glad to take this stock off our hands at the prices we are offering it to you, for every item is to go at less than the cost of materials in it, to say nothing of the cost of labor, but we prefer to give our customers the benefit of the several thousands of dollars we will lose during this ten days sale. The bargains will be so great that they will linger long in a customers memory and one pleased customer telling another of her bargain will spread the news until this firm will be the talk of the County and that way the advertising we will get will practically reimburse us for the loss we are taking

We are bound to open our stores at Waukegan, Kenosha and Racine for the Fall trade with new methods and stocks entirely new. Be on hand at 8 o'clock Thursday morning if you want your choice, for these 50c on the dollar prices will make the stocks fade away like mists before the morning sun. We are so well known as promise keepers that this announcement of the greatest sale in the history of Waukegan and Kenosha will throng both stores from the opening of the doors Thursday morning. Extra help has been provided that we can wait on all.

Every article will be sold at just half what the regular price tag calls for, 50c on the dollar. Out-of-town people who have friends in Waukegan or Kenosha should make their visit now, as they can save enough at this sale to pay their expenses a dozen times
